And where do we go from here, Which is the way that's clear?

David Essex

We climb a mountain whose way is rough, but we are rewarded by the image of what lies behind and the promise of what lies ahead.

We are the sum of our experiences, mirrors reflecting the people to whom and places to which we have been exposed.

We are at once the artist and the clay, molders of others and molded by them.

We are marionettes shuffled back and forth through life according to the whims of some authority. However, our strings are wearing thin from constant manipulation and we shall decide if we shall be free.

We must begin to work ourselves to choose the setting within which and the characters with whom we will play out the rest of our lives.

Like all those who habitually and instinctively lie, he has an enormous respect and awe for the truth.

F. Scott Fitzgerald

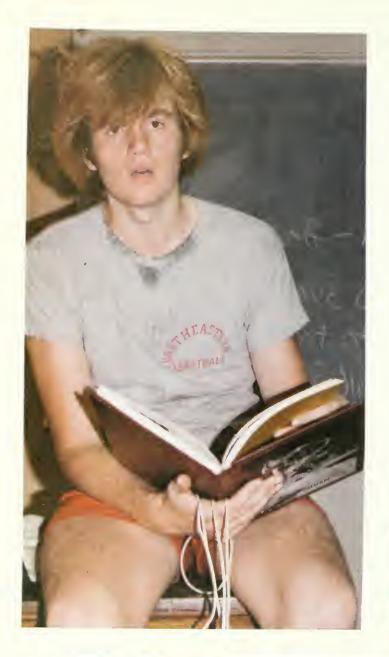

Our knowledge is the amassed thought and experience of innumerable minds.

Emerson

We are only as we find out we are.

Charles Olson

The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, And sorry I could not travel both And be one traveler, long I stood And looked down one as far as I could To where it bent in the undergrowth; Then took the other, as just as fair, And having perhaps the better claim, Because it was grassy and wanted wear; Though as for that, the passing there Had worn them really about the same.

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.
I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and II took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

Shakespeare

I am being driven forward
Into an unknown land,
The pass grows steeper,
The air grows colder and sharper.
A wind from my unknown goal
Stirs the strings
Of expectation.

Dag Hammarskiold

Dag Hammarskjold

As we break through the thick protecting folds of our shell into the harsh but uncharted world, the time is right to plot and plan a course for future exploration.

We must decide
the direction of our lives
but life need not be charted at one sitting.
We may change ourselves
at any point in the fray.
Indeed some people never will decide
a direction for themselves.
Rather, they wander through life
and are the sounding boards of experience.
This is in itself a decision for as others have said before me
"Not to decide is to decide."

Blessed is the man who, having nothing to say, abstains from giving us wordy evidence of the fact.

George Eliot

To be a comedian is one of the saddest things in life.

We search for answers and are consumed by curiosity but can see nothing until we know ourselves.

Curiosity consumes us, driving us to search and probe the greatest depths of another's soul. We want to know the substance of which they are made just as the chemist seeks to know his compound.

We classify and categorize each other but we are all the scientist or the astronaut as we explore new frontiers.

All you need in this life is ignorance and confidence, and then success is sure.

Mark Twain

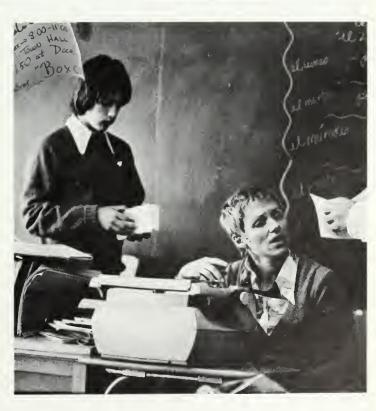

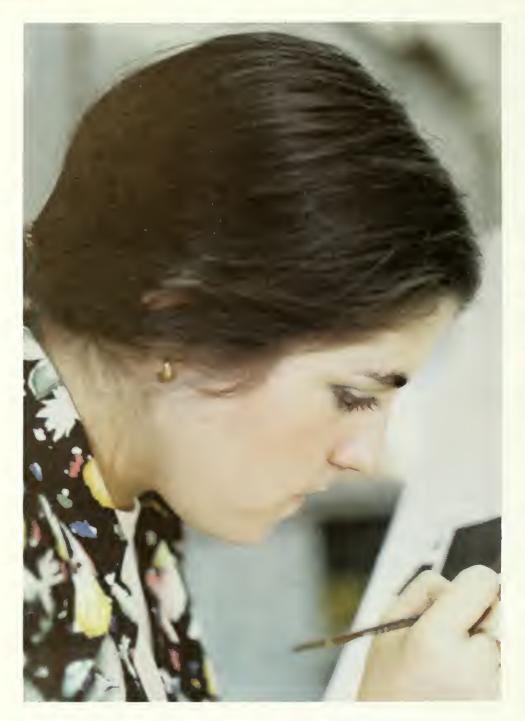

... for solitude is essential to man. All men come into this world alone; all leave it alone.

De Quincey

We are expressions of inner conflicts and canvases on which our feelings are painted.

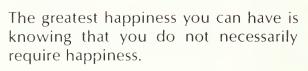

Our emotions change with the tides, leaving us quiet and reflective or loud and active.

Changes in mood give dimension and color to us, just as experience changes our form. Experiences and feelings may be shared but we are still unique individuals.

The foolish man seeks happiness in the distance,

The wise man grows it under his feet.

James Oppenheim

One will ask oneself in the years ahead, "What was the AHS experience for me?" For some it was sports, for others it was books and learning, for many it was partying, and for a great many others the experience was nothingness. Yet for all of us AHS has been a place where we have spent four years of our lives. Perhaps initially we could play the games and allow our freedom to be surrendered, But many are growing weary from constant control, and are eagerly awaiting the time when we will move on.

Parting for many is necessary for we have outgrown AHS and must move on to live and grow in another setting. We are like snakes shedding their old skins to make room for their personal growth; Yet for many others it is not a question of outgrowing the AHS mold, for they were never able to fill it. For them this is the time of parole. However, whichever group you fall under, we are all united in our walk through the door into a world where we will continue to grow through our interactions with others.

He slowly opened the door and stepped outside. The bright sunlight blinded him. He saw a woman walk by. Her costume was unlike anything that he had ever seen. The air seemed much dirtier and the empty lot was now a towering building of glass. Four years in an institution, Yet he had finally been released back into the real world. As he walked down the road with cars racing by him on one side and hurrying people on the other, he came to a newstand and bought a paper. As he looked at the want ads and thought of all the qualifications that he didn't have, and of his girl friend who had married someone else while he was gone, the thought drifted through his mind, "Where am I going?"

It was then that he was overcome with tremendous fear, for what future was there for anyone after four years in an institution.

He began to run wildly down the road, and although he crashed into pedestrians, he continued his blind flight.

The man was stopped by a policeman and taken in for questioning.

He feared the future and so ran back to the shelter of the institution.

There life was dull and without freedom, but it was known. Whereas, the outside world was a maze which one had to travel through.

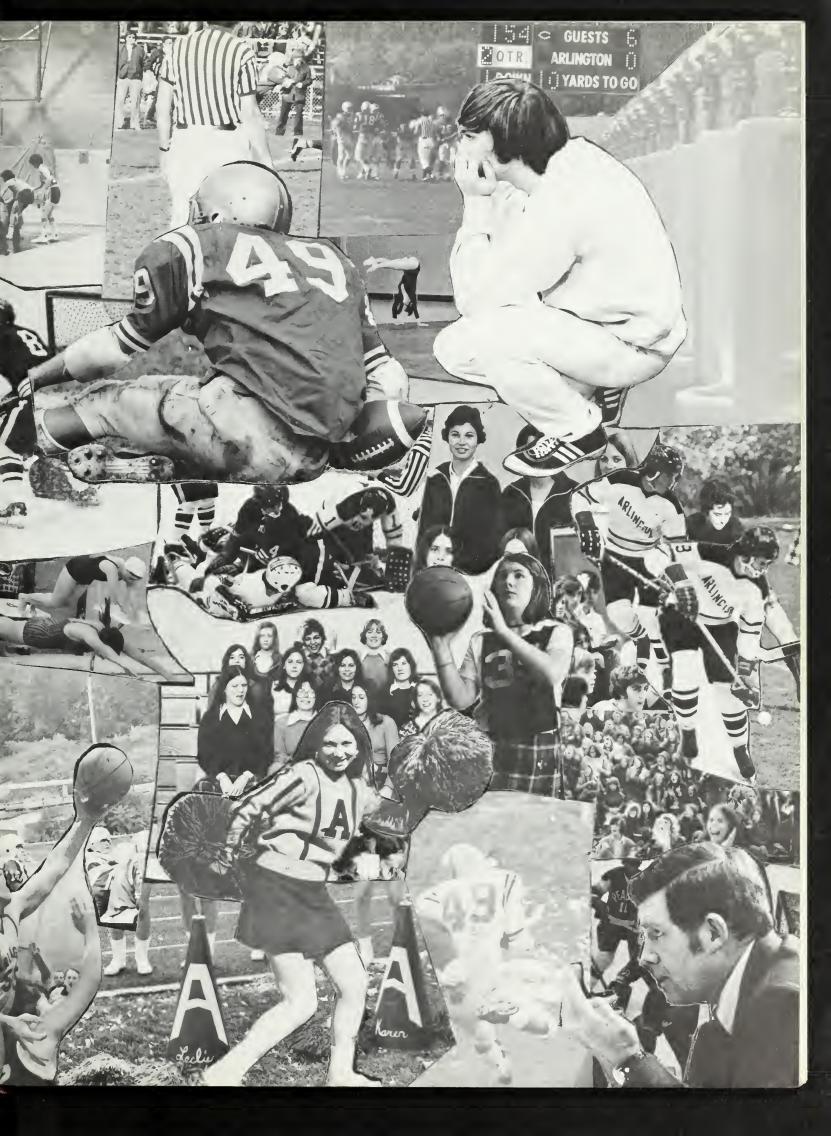

There is security in the institution.

"He never errs who sacrifices self." Edward Bulwer-Lytton

"Though nothing can bring back the hour Of splendour in the grass, of glory in the flower; We will grieve not, rather find Strength in what remains behind; ... " William Wordsworth

Yes, it's over, but for four long months we shared life — life from birth to death and the everyday toil and joy in between.

A boy was born before the big game. Inspiration sent from heaven. We lost.

"Congratulations dad from all your girls," they wrote.

The game is over, but the loving thought lives on.

"They all wore dresses," said L.M., as her eyes welled with a sense of pride.

A letter from Mrs. R. in her time of supreme trial.

"It was the young people from whom we gained our strength and faith to endure those sad days. We were very proud to know so many kind and thoughtful people, especially the young. If these are our future leaders, we should have no fear."

Yes, we also knew and shared defeat and death. Is basketball only a game?

"O.K. you owe 2 sprints."

"If you can make this shot, you'll only owe 1 sprint."

"Baseline!"

"Box out!"

"Hands up!"

For four months we worked very hard at the game too. Our 12-5 record is testimony to that feat. We worked hard and received the fruits of our labors. Oh, and we had a couple of miracles thrown in at Haverhill and Billerica.

But all work and no play makes Laura and Sally and Mary and Roberta dull girls. There were no dull girls on our bus rides.

"They did it once, twice

Oh, was it nice.

We are the girls from AHS!"

Fantastic team harmony with a couple of splendid solos blended in for masculine balance.

True, there will be no more songs and no more games, but we have been fortunate to have been a part of each others' lives for those few months. There will be no more sprints, no more last-second victories, no more bus rides, but we have had them — some people never do. We cannot grieve that it is over. Rather we should receive strength from such a treasure chest of beautiful memories. We should strive on to achieve our future dreams, we now know can be realized.

"Make way for your betters." Terence

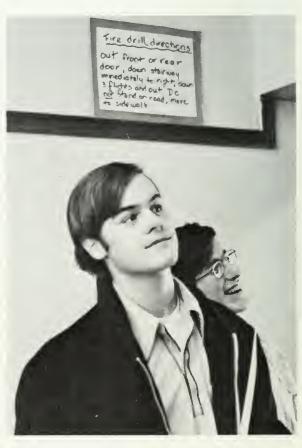

What is music but an essential and integral part of our lives? It is a common bond holding people together and an effective form of communication. Music can be used to hypnotize crowds and to spur them to action as in the case of the Pied-Piper of Hamlin.

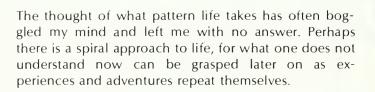

Music may also be used to convey a feeling or need as is the case with much music heard today. But there is another kind of music which is heard by all, the music of people's minds and spirits. The beauty and purity of their chords draws me to them. What, after all, is friendship but the drawing together of melodies into a tremendous symphony, with each note and chord influencing the notes to follow.

However, the thought of life as a spiral implies that some final truth exists at the end. Perhaps life is merely a repeating decimal or a circle which chases itself forever and can have no birth or death. Maybe this reasoning is all wrong, for our lives may be webs that we spin and our friends may be insects caught in the webs that are brought to ourselves to determine the future nature of our lives.

In any event life goes on, with or without philosophizing, and innumerable times in the future this pattern will come into play again, the pattern of moving from east to west, or from the established world to what is new.

We are dependent upon others, they upon us. The meaning of our life takes form through the influence of life around us. We benefit and become richer from the contributions of those gone before us. Our contact with those around us will enrich our philosophies as our lives will supply thoughts and feelings in others. So let us take a few minutes out of our busy day to share our lives with one another; to remember our dependence upon others and the light we might shed on others' problems. You must see past selfishness to the goals that represent the sort of person you wish to become. Your life at A.H.S. could serve as an example. Some of you go to required classes, take required tests and hope for passing grades which are required for graduation. This kind of existence is cheap. It is cheap because you pay nothing of yourselves. You may think you are getting something for nothing, but you're not!

The price each of us must pay for a full life is high. We must be willing to sacrifice in order to uphold what we think is right. We must have convictions too strong to be pushed aside. (Is the price too high?) Will you decide on the road of "cheap existence" that ends in disillusionment and nothingness, or will you offer all you have? The choice is yours. I can only hope for you a life full of all that will make you a special and complete person.

Love, Pauline Finberg

ARLINGTON BUICK COMPANY

835 Mass. Ave. Arlington, Mass. 02174 phone: 643-5300 I say to you today, my friends, that in spite of the difficulties and frustrations of the moment I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream.

I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal."

I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood.

I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a desert state sweltering with the heat of injustice and oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice.

I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character.

I have a dream today.

I have a dream that one day the state of Alabama, whose governor's lips are presently dripping with the words of interpostion and nullification, will be transformed into a situation where little black boys and black girls will be able to join hands with little white boys and white girls and walk together as sisters and brothers.

I have a dream today.

I have a dream that one day every valley shall be exalted, every hill and mountain shall be made low, the rough places will be made plains, and the crooked places will be made straight, and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together.

This is our hope. This is the faith with which I return to the South. With this faith we will be able to hew out of the mountain of despair a stone of hope. With this faith we will be able to transform the jangling discords of our nation into a beautiful symphony of brotherhood. With this faith we will be able to work together, to pray together, to struggle together, to go to jail together, to stand up for freedom together, knowing that we will be free one day.

This will be the day when all of God's children will be able to sing with new meaning

My country, 'tis of thee,

Sweet land of liberty,

Of thee I sing:

Land where my fathers died,

Land of the pilgrims' pride,

From every mountainside

Let freedom ring.

And if America is to be a great nation this must become true. So let freedom ring from the prodigious hilltops of New Hampshire. Let freedom ring from the mighty mountains of New York. Let freedom ring from the heightening Alleghenies of Pennsylvania!

Let freedom ring from the snowcapped Rockies of Colorado!

Let freedom ring from the curvacious peaks of California!

But not only that; let freedom ring from Stone Mountain of Georgia!

Let freedom ring from Lookout Mountain Of Tennessee!

Let freedom ring from every hill and molehill of Mississippi. From every mountainside, let freedom ring.

When we let freedom ring, when we let it ring from every village and every hamlet, from every state and every city, we will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestants, and Catholics, will be able to join hands and sing in the words of the Old Negro spiritual, "Free at last! free at last! thank God almighty, we are free at last!"
